Michael Scott

Department: Branch Manager

Michael Gary Scott was born March 15, 1965, in Scranton, Pennsylvania. He came from a relatively difficult childhood of loneliness. Michael had some trouble with his early education, shown in Dunder Mifflin Infinity as Michael tells the camera crew he was held back from second-grade. In Diversity Day, Michael claims to be of English, Irish, German, and Scottish ancestry. He also claims to be two-fifteenths Native American. He has mentioned a stepfather, Jeff, whom he despises. In Nepotism, it is revealed that Michael had a half-sister, from whom he was estranged for 15 years. As a consequence of their reunion, Michael hires his nephew Luke as an intern for the office, but eventually confronts the incompetent and rude Luke and ends up spanking him in front of the office, leading Luke to burst into tears and quit.

Dwight Schrute

Department: Assistant to the Regional Manager

When the series begins, Dwight Schrute is a competent salesman, despite lacking general knowledge, at the Scranton branch of the paper distribution company, Dunder Mifflin. Dwight formally held the title of Assistant to the Regional Manager, but constantly refers to himself as Assistant Regional Manager, attempting to elevate himself to second-in-command to branch Manager, Michael Scott. (Michael privately makes him Assistant Manager in The Fight, tells him that no record/mention will be kept of the title change only, then never acknowledges it again.) Dwight craves authority over his co-workers and relishes any minor task that Michael or anyone else will give him.
